BABY.

WHEN BABY LAUGHS.
"There's nothing half so sweet in life,"
No cup of joy to quaff,
Nor rich a treat as dimpled cheeks
When baby tries to laugh.

WHEN BABY CRIES.
Nor anything so tart of taste
As when good nature dies
In vain attempt to "stop that noise,"
When baby cries and cries.

WHETHER BABY LAUGHS OR CRIES.
And nothing half so sweet or dear
As loveliest baby cries,
Or a pressure close from baby lips,
Whether baby laughs or cries.

—Clark W. Bryan in Good Housekeeping.

A TIGERISH TURKISH MOB.

Murderous Bludgeon Men in the Streets of Constantinople.

Such men as the bludgeon men one does not often see in the streets of Constantinople. Of the better class of Turks there were none among them. They were of a class like the wharf rats and longshoremen of western lands. They were of all shades of color, from the white-skinned Laz and Circassian to the brown and black nosed Kurd and the coal black Nubian from Africa. Their faces were a study of fearful passions. There were faces seamed and scarred like the head of a fighting bulldog; faces distorted by malice and greed; faces seared, as by fire, once hardened in ignorance of all except vice and ferociousness as an angry tiger. Some of these faces burned their way into my memory and remained for days, a haunting revelation of brutal instincts and beastly desires which made one wonder how it was possible to have lived in safety for weeks in a city containing such men.

These men were not armed, in the common sense of the word. Some of them had revolvers, and the most of them had knives. But they seldom used either, for awkward questions might be raised if the police were called to account for failing to arrest armed civilians on the streets. Carrying axes, hammers, heavy clubs, like baseball bats, jagged fragments of broken scumpling—carrying anything that can crush the skull of man—this horrible rabble flooded the streets of all Christian quarters of the city, like an all-devouring tidal wave, silent but irresistible. Their silence by day was almost as terrible as their howls by night. They would be seen going along the street, when they would meet an Armenian who had ventured to attempt to reach his home. Without a word they would break in his skull and go on their way, entirely unmoved and hardly having spoken a loud word. If resistance was offered, they had only to say, "The Glorious Allah!" and a horde of their fellows would come running from all directions to destroy one who had proved his weakness by daring to resist. "A Maccabean," "A Bystander's Name of a Maccabean," by Yvan Troschine, in Fortnightly.

Exploring the Upper Niger.

After an absence of three years the expedition under Lieutenant Houart has safely returned to Europe from the Niger. The party ascended the Senegal river and then carried the sections of an aluminum boat overland to the upper part of the Niger. On reaching this river the pieces of the boat were put together and two native boats purchased. In these the expedition sailed down the Niger to Timbuktu, where a stay of ten months was made. The voyage from Timbuktu to Lokoja, at the confluence of the Niger and Benue, seems to have been arduous, but from that point the expedition was towed by a launch belonging to the Royal Niger company to the coast at Warri. How much fresh topographical information Lieutenant Houart's party has obtained is not yet stated. This will depend on the highest point reached on the Niger. Rouet's message states that the expedition "first met the river Niger at Kayes," but that town is on the Senegal river. There can be no doubt, however, that much valuable scientific information was obtained, for the expedition traveled slowly and was admirably equipped. One novelty was the use of a phonograph for recording the native war songs. The expedition kept pace with the natives throughout the journey, in which it differs greatly from some of those previously conducted by French explorers in that region.—Nature.

A Story of Cecil Rhodes.

Often mentioned is Cecil Rhodes' dislike to women and the fact that he will not allow a female to serve him in any way. He had a secretary to whom he was much attached. One day he announced the fact that he was going to be married. The chief was thunder-struck, and after glaring at him for a second, he asked, "Where the devil am I to get another secretary?" and then walked out of the room and banged the door. His innate goodness of heart, however, prevailed after a bit, for he presented the bride with some lovely diamonds, and when, soon after, he left for England he left the young couple his carriage and horses, so that the offending bride was enabled to return her wedding calls at his expense! It never occurred to him, however, to keep his favorite secretary on. The more fact of his marrying put that quite out of the pale of possibility.

Sale of "Arabian Nights."

The late Sir Richard Burton's translation of the "Arabian Nights" was sold out in ten days and brought $80,000, even which he and his wife lived regally for five years. At his death but $3 a copy of the same, and Lady Burton acquired it in the poorest of her church.

The age of a fly is so constructed as to bring the entire horizon within his circle of observation, a fact which explains the extreme alertness of these insects in escaping attack.

Women Who Suffer

pain each month can find relief and emancipation from their troubles. Congestion and inflammation of the internal organs are generally induced by exposure to wet or cold, excitement of the emotions, or a morbid condition of the blood. For the radical cure of these derangements Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a safe and certain remedy, permanently correcting all abnormal conditions, so that these trying ordeals are passed with ease and comfort. Ulcerations and displacements of the uterus are cured by the "Favorite Prescription," and the cure is lasting.

Hysteria, Spasms, Nervousness, Indigestion, or Dyspepsia, often depend upon irregularities of function and displacements of the womanly organs. The "Favorite Prescription" cures by regulating and correcting these functions and organic changes.

For all irregularities, suppressions and obstructions, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a specific, and has a record of over a century of cures.

Mrs. Mary Wilson, of Southfield, Michigan, writes: "For twelve long years I suffered greatly with extreme nervousness, stomach and uterine disease. I had been treated by four physicians with little good, and one of them was as good as a physician as could be had here; he gave me up to die. None of my friends thought I could get well. We had tried almost everything, and at last I thought I would try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I had been best of the time for almost two years. After taking several bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' and following the directions strictly, I now enjoy better health than ever before in my life. I only weigh a little over one hundred pounds and now I weigh 147 pounds."

That Becomes of Ships Which Sink to the Bottom of the Sea.

What becomes of the ship that sinks in midocean? If it is of wood, it takes, in the first place, considerable time for it to reach the bottom. In 100 or more fathoms of water a quarter of an hour will elapse before the ship reaches bottom. It is a long time, and when the bottom is reached, it falls gently into the soft, oozy bed, with no crash or breaking.

Of course, if it is laden with pig iron or corresponding substances, or if it is an iron ship, it sinks rapidly and sometimes strikes the bottom with such force as to smash in pieces. Once sunken, a ship becomes the prey of the countless inhabitants of the ocean.

They swarm over and through the great boat and make it their home. Besides this they cover every inch of the boat with a thick layer of lime. This takes time, of course, and when one generation dies another continues the work, until finally the ship is so laden with heavy incrustations, corals, sponges and barnacles that, if wood, the creaking timbers fall apart and slowly but surely are absorbed in the waste at the sea bottom.

Iron vessels are demolished more quickly than those of wood, which may last for centuries. The only metals that withstand the chemical action of the waves are gold and platinum, and glass also seems unaffected. No matter how long gold may be hidden in the ocean, it will always be gold when recovered, and this fact explains the many romantic and adventurous searches after hidden submarine treasures lost in shipwrecks.—Exchange.

Sanitation in Asia.

The appearance of plague at Bombay and Calcutta has produced one good effect at all events. Before its advent those prosperous cities had come to believe that they had nothing to learn in regard to sanitation. There was a time when they were open to reproach in such matters as open sewers, polluted water, and what not. But by dint of liberal expenditure of money and energy they had made matters right and could even challenge comparison with Paris, Berlin and Vienna. When, however, the awful eastern scourge, after striking firm root at the western capital, drew across the peninsula to the eastern, the public became a little doubtful as to whether sanitary precautions had been duly observed. First came inquiry, then dismay, indignation, wrath, as discovery followed discovery, each more appalling than the last. We refrain from giving particulars. Even to read these horrors is sickening. But a still more terrible question presents itself. If the two most cultured and wealthiest cities in Hindustan are in this dreadful condition, what must be the state of less favored centers of population in districts where there are few whites and many blacks? Were the plague to penetrate inland, it would, we fear, find many towns only too ready for its reception.—London Graphic.

The Wedding Ring.

The associations called up by a wedding ring are very touching, and it is the last thing that even the poorest wife will part with. If it ever was considered a badge of servitude, it now is much more suggestive of friendship and sympathy. An old Latin writer thus describes the ring: It is circular, because the mutual love and hearty affection of matrimony should be forever, their continuity remaining as unbroken as the circle itself. It is an old—and exploded—notion that the ring is placed upon the fourth finger because a small artery connects with the heart. The real reason probably is that the left hand is not used as much as the right, and the fourth finger less than the other fingers.

The largest American fly is a little over half an inch in length. The cat plant is in Italy regarded as emblematic of music.

PUZZLERS IN COURT.

POINTS THAT HAVE KEPT THE LAWYERS GUESSING.

Curious Questions Raised in Courts of Law. All Countries Contribute a Share of What Would Make an Interesting Volume—Several Examples.

An interesting volume might be written on the curious points of law that are constantly arising in the courts. The most expert lawyers and judges are frequently puzzled by the novel situations in which they are placed.

One of the most curious points of law on record arose recently in a court at Jersey, in America. The question was whether eggs, after reaching a certain stage of incubation, were to be regarded as eggs or chickens. After quarreling about the matter for some time, counsel offered to break one of the eggs to satisfy the law that it contained a chicken, in which case, of course, the eggs would have been considerably enhanced in value, but there was a general demur to this suggestion, and the justice reserved his decision till he had consulted his colleagues. The result had not come to hand at the time of writing.

A remarkable case in France excited a great deal of attention some time ago. A gentleman dining on the terrace of a Narbonne restaurant laid a bank note fall into his soup. He laid it down on the table to dry and a gust of wind blew it away. A passing dog swallowed the note, and the gentleman detained the animal, whose collar happened to bear its master's name. Indignant at his loss, the owner of the note sued the dog's master for 100 francs, the value of the note. There was much legal hair splitting, but at length the court ordered the owner of the dog to pay the money.

Another French case was that against a Paris hairdresser, who was sued by a lady for $80, being the price of her damaged locks. The fair claimant had used the hairdresser's wash, which was said to restore fallen locks, but the result in this case was to burn the hair off completely. The point was the liability of the hairdresser, and the court awarded the lady $8.

Applications for injunctions often raise curious points. Not long ago an injunction was granted to restrain an officer in the life guards from keeping horses in a London drawing room, the ground of objection being the noise which the animals made, which annoyed the neighbors. The offending officer is now in a lunatic asylum.

There was a fight not long ago in one of the London courts between a barrel organ and a piano, an injunction being obtained to restrain a gentleman from keeping an organ. It seemed that the organ was annoyed by his next door neighbor's piano, and to avenge himself he obtained a barrel organ, which he played at all times of the day. The question of the "liberty of the subject," of course, came up, but the court decided that, if an Englishman's house is his castle, it is not a fit place for a barrel organ that never stops, and the organ received strict instructions to remain silent, on the ground that the owner evidently intended to create a nuisance.

The market value of a cough was the question submitted to the Birmingham county court. A barrister sued a railway company for $50 for discomfort suffered by smoking being allowed in a waiting room at a station and in non-smoking carriages. The smoking aggravated the barrister's cough, and he was awarded $10.

A queer point arose in the revision court at Nottingham. While the court was sitting a young collier named Allcock killed his wife in the most deliberate manner and afterward confessed his crime. An application was made that Allcock's name should be struck off the register. "Why?" queried the barrister, receiving the answer, "Because he is a murderer." "That remains to be proved," said the barrister, and the name remained on the roll.

The finding of lost property has often given rise to curious points of law. A workman who found a valuable ring in a London theater claimed the return of the ring from the proprietors, who had taken possession of it. The court, however, rejected his claim, as the ring had been picked up while the man was fulfilling his duties as a servant. At first sight this decision appears to be inconsistent with that arrived at some years ago in a case in which a chimney sweep sued a jeweler for a precious stone. The sweep had found a brooch on his rounds, which he took to the jeweler, who extracted a precious stone and substituted a worthless imitation. On this being discovered, the jeweler replied to the sweep's demand for the return of his stone that the stone did not belong to the sweep, as he had found it, the inference being that he could, therefore, steal it with impunity. The court, however, held otherwise, and the sweep recovered his jewel.

Eastern superstition gave rise to a singular argument in a Chinese court not long ago. A Chinaman had been sent to prison, and, according to custom, the authorities proceeded to cut off his pigtail, whereupon the prisoner applied for an injunction on the ground that without his pigtail he could not enter the kingdom of heaven. After much legal quarreling the court decided that there is no religion in prison, and that the prisoner must share the fate of his comrades, whatever the result in the world to come.—London Tit-Bits.

The Episode Closed.

He is a young lawyer, and she lived in the west end. They were to have been married in a month. The other day they fell to quarreling over the telephone. She was petulant. He was angry. Finally she called him a b-b-brute and said that he could consider the engagement off.

"All right," said he, and then he "rang off," as they say in telephone parlance.

And she—well, she returned the ring.—Albany Journal.

YALE AND MR. CORBETT.

Once more Yale college is in evidence before the people and the bumptious young students are the cause of it.

It appears that Mr. James J. Corbett the well-known exponent of physical culture visited Yale last fall and as a matter of course created quite a furor among the students. The young men desiring to honor Mr. Corbett and to encourage him in his coming battle, a few days since sent him a letter of commendation and encouragement and also a Yale flag. After expressing the hope that Corbett would win, the letter asks him to accept the flag to hang in his training quarters and have it in his corner, the day of the fight. Thirteen sons of quite prominent men signed the letter.

The faculty was not long in finding out what had been done and of course their amazement and horror at the prospect of Yale's flag being a prominent feature in a prize fight away out in Sagebrush Nevada, and that too, at the instigation of Yale's own students, was beyond description. The faculty have taken the matter in hand. What action it will take and what punishment it will inflict no one can tell.

The people generally will not be at all surprised at this little outbreak of the students of Yale. It is only a few months since, that one of the purest, best and ablest men in American politics went to New Haven at the invitation of his party friends, to speak on the issues of the day.

The students of this same college broke up the meeting with, hooting and yelling and rowdyish actions that would have been a disgrace to the lowest slums in any city on the universe.

And what did this same faculty do? As a faculty did it manifest any disapprobation of the action of the students? Not a bit of it. It was considered good politics to say nothing, and that was what it did. The speaker was not of their political faith, therefore the students were doing no wrong in breaking up the meeting.

Had they been properly punished at that time, there can be but little doubt that the college would have been spared this further humiliation.

The Yale people are powerful, but they cannot totally overturn the laws of nature. If they "sow the wind" it is pretty sure they will "reap the whirlwind."

CLOSE OF THE LEGISLATURE.

At a late hour yesterday the Legislature let it be known that it intended to adjourn sine die at midnight. At 7 o'clock the appropriation bill had not reached the Governor's office, so that if it contains objectionable clauses he will have no alternative but to approve it or convene the Legislature in extra session should he veto it.

As before stated in the JOURNAL the Legislative Fund bill is the first to pass the Legislature, and the General Appropriation bill is about the last. The latter may contain no objectionable features, but if it did there would be no remedy except an extra session, and that would be ruinous to the Treasury.

It is remarkable that the members, many of whom are heavy taxpayers and all of whom are men of average intelligence, should act so inconsiderately. They know or at least ought to know that the General Appropriation bill requires the closest scrutiny and that it should not be held back until the last evening of the session when the Executive must approve it or incur the expense of an extra session to the State.

The Legislature passed many bills, much more than that of two years ago, but several of them are of local importance only. It was a clean session and there were only one or two measures which had a taint of suspicion about them. That there was favoritism on the part of Committees there is no doubt, as bills passed late in the evening were enrolled and sent to the Governor early next morning, while other bills, which did not have the "push," were held back several days, though the record shows that they were passed and sent to enrollment before the favored measures.

While those who composed the eighteenth session of the Nevada Legislature were not, perhaps, as brilliant as some who have figured in former Legislatures, they were, on the whole, men of average intelligence and appeared to legislate for what they believed to be the best interests of the State.

OFFICIAL ADVERTISING.

A bill introduced by Assemblyman Bradshaw of Humboldt fixing the rates for advertising by the State and the several counties of the State has passed both Houses. It provides that all advertising ordered or required by the State or Nevada or the respective counties of the States shall be paid for by the State or the county ordering or requiring the same at the rate of $2 per square of ten lines nonpareil measurement for the first insertion, and $1 per square for each subsequent insertion; an insertion to be deemed one publication per week.

The members of the Legislature with a few exceptions of men who have had experience, think the newspaper business is the best paying business in the State. The majority so believing, in the interest of economy, reduced the rate per square from $2.50 to $2 for the first insertion. While this reduces the rate for all State advertising and also for certain county advertising it also increases the rate for certain county advertising, so that while the State will pay less the counties will pay about as much as they do at present. The members who voted for the measure were doubtless ignorant of that and they "knew too much" to ask practical persons for information on the subject. The bill will save the State a few dollars a year, less beyond doubt than it cost the State to pass the bill, but it will not materially change the rate for county printing, for while it reduces the cost of publishing the reports of the Auditor and Treasurer it increases the cost of publishing the bills allowed by the Board of County Commissioners.

THE CATTLE QUARANTINE.

Senator Ernst visited Reno a week ago last Friday and ascertained on Saturday morning before he left for Carson that cattle from the eastern slope of California were being quarantined by order of the Secretary of Agriculture. Mr. Ernst, immediately upon the convening of the Legislature, introduced a joint resolution, which was expedited through both Houses, citing the fact that no contagious cattle disease prevailed in California north of Bishop Creek and east of the crest of the Sierra Nevada, and requesting the Secretary to release from quarantine cattle within the section specified. Governor Sadler telegraphed the resolution to the Secretary of Agriculture Saturday, March 6th, as appears from the Journal of the Senate and on Tuesday, March 9th, was informed by the Secretary that he had ordered an inspector sent to Reno, who would grant permits for the shipment of cattle which he found free from disease.

If Mr. Hill, Mr. Fulton or anybody else denies what is here set forth the record will prove that they are mistaken, and if Mr. Hill, the inspector, says he was not ordered here by the Secretary of Agriculture, then the Secretary of Agriculture misstated the facts in his reply to Governor Sadler.

"The Wisconsin."

The first rivet in the keel of this formidable vessel was driven Thursday at the shipyard of the Union Iron Works. The Wisconsin will be one of the largest ships in the American Navy. Her dimensions will be: length on load water line, 363 feet; beam extreme, 52 feet 2.5 inches; normal displacement, 11,525 tons; mean draft at normal displacement, 23 feet 6 inches. The main battery will man four thirteen-inch breech-loading rifles of the latest design. Fourteen six-inch rapid-fire rifles will supplement the big guns. The secondary battery will consist of sixteen six-pound rapid-fire guns, four one pounders and four machine guns. The Wisconsin will have a speed of sixteen knots.

Bryan in Tennessee.

Last Thursday, by invitation, Wm. J. Bryan addressed both Houses of the Legislature and a large number of citizens in the House of Representatives. Governor Taylor introduced Mr. Bryan as "the man who would be the first President in the twentieth century."

Mr. Bryan spoke for an hour upon the basic principles of the Government and during his speech criticized railroads and corporations and corporative influences at length. This afternoon, Mr. Bryan visited the Peabody Normal School and made a short speech to the pupils. During the day and evening many social attentions were extended to him.

Diphtheria Cure.

The testimony of a prominent physician: FOUNTAIN CITY, Ind., June 17, 1895. This certifies that I have been using V. O. in my practice. I have never found any medical preparation in 46 years of practice that is calculated to do so much good in so wide a range of diseases and leave no after bad effects. In Diphtheria it has proved a perfect specific in my hands, and I had rather depend on it alone in that dreadful disease than the whole popular Materia Medica that was left out.

The Minstrels.

Mahara's Minstrels appeared at McKissick's Opera House last evening to a fair house. The singing was good—the chorus exceptionally so. It would be hard to find a better male contralto than the one with this troupe. The colorationist was immense. The jokes were new and the witisms very laughable. The company is a good one and deserves liberal patronage.

Japanese Competition.

Mr. George C. Perkins is uneasy because of the competition of Japan and gives his reasons in The Overland Monthly:

Japan has an unlimited supply of cheap coal and cheap labor. It has already demonstrated its ability to compete with Europe and America by invading the home markets of those countries. It has the best machinery which the world has up to this time produced and can manufacture as much more as it needs. The initiative faculty of the race is unquestioned and unrivaled, and its originality is becoming acknowledged. It recognizes such educational defects as it possesses and with characteristic energy and conscientiousness is setting about to gain such knowledge as is necessary to bring its people to the highest state of industrial efficiency. Chemistry was formerly practically an unknown science in Japan. Now the Japanese export chemicals to America. Physics and mathematics will be studied with similar practical results, and most Japanese now living will undoubtedly acquire with a modern civilization, and with a people civil Japanese in character and tastes, who manufacture goods for foreign markets, as do the English, who no more desire to supply their goods with English, French or American names, than we do to supply ours with those of China, Japan or India.

A Parisian Discovery.

All Paris just now, according to The Journal, is flocking to 28 Rue Ravignan, Montmartre, where, a few days ago, a most remarkable discovery was made. In this neighborhood are the ruins of the ancient monastery of the Benedictines and other old buildings used by the brothers, most of which are also giving way to the ravages of time. At 28 Rue Ravignan Mme. Berthelot keeps a grocery store. She sleeps in a small chamber in the rear, that at one time was probably used as an oratory. Mme. Berthelot, noticing that the tiles on the floor of the chamber gave forth a hollow sound as she stepped upon them, and thinking that a cellar there would be very convenient for her business, sent for a mason and had the tiles removed. A flight of stone steps was revealed, leading into a labyrinth of passages. The authorities have now taken possession of the place, and a systematic investigation is being conducted. Many relics have been found, and it is believed that much light is likely to be thrown upon the history of Paris during the fourteenth century.

A Lucky Diagnosis.

The patient's symptoms indicated cardiac troubles, and the doctor got out his stethoscope and applied it to his chest to test the action of the heart. The patient flushed angrily, unbuttoned his vest and took from his inside pocket a $5 bill wrapped in a piece of old paper. "I think it's carrying things a little too far," he said, "when you doctors go to looking through a man with an X ray to see how much money he has."—Detroit Free Press.

The Viavi Cause.

It is impossible to take Viavi into the system without benefit. It is purely vegetable and as a nerve and tissue builder has no equal. It can be used with perfect safety by the most delicate, and is used upon the smallest children.

Patrons of the remedy can consult our physicians free of charge. I will take pleasure in explaining its various uses to all who may call.

THE NEVADA LEGISLATURE.

THE EIGHTEENTH SESSION—
FIFTY-FIFTH DAY.Last Day of the Session—Great
Eloquence—Appropriation
Bill.

CARSON, March 13, 1897.

The last day of the session was a rush and bang to close up the business. There was an unusual amount of oratory in the Assembly, each speaker seeming to think that his opportunity for eloquence was becoming limited. A concurrent resolution was adopted by both branches providing for an adjournment to-night at 12 o'clock.

The General Appropriation bill after a thorough overhauling by a free conference committee was passed to-day and will go to the Governor before adjournment. The bill providing for a deficiency for the Agricultural Society was passed, also a $500 appropriation for the General Appropriation bill for the same purpose.

Both Houses will clean up all business before adjournment and care has been taken not to neglect any measure or leave it pigeonholed.

While the Legislature has not in the opinion of some accomplished any great legislation, the members have carefully looked into all matters presented to them and have acted conscientiously and for what they believed to be the best interests of the State and the people.

In many instances useless expense and cost to the State has been lopped off and the State officers and heads of State institutions given thoroughly to understand that they must manage within their respective appropriations and a bill restricting deficiencies has passed both houses and been approved by the Governor that will be a constant reminder that there is a check on visionary or useless extravagance in the future. Men from every part of the State have met together and after consultation determined that the State affairs must be run on a basis within the limits of the conditions now existing in the State and as carefully as a private business or corporation is run. In fact the State officials have received more than ordinary reproofs or cautions, they have been told straight up that the policy of twenty years ago in running the State was at an end and economy would have to be the watchword from now on.

The members of both branches have formed friendships during their short sojourn in Carson and while all are glad to return to their homes, they carry with them many pleasant reminiscences of the Eighteenth session of the Nevada Legislature.

Methodist Church.—Morning service, "Remorse Not Repentance." Opera House service at 7; topic, "A Study in Capital and Labor." Special music will be the feature of the evening.

"The Solid Man."

William Muldoon, the noted wrestler and athlete, came in from the east yesterday, stopped over at the Riverside and in the afternoon went up to Carson, where he will report for the Examiner his ideas concerning the condition of the gladiators who come together on the 17th. Mr. or Professor Muldoon, as he is called, is the proprietor of an establishment in New York devoted to putting men into good physical condition. If a man has too much adipose tissue it is reduced, if "lean and hungry" the professor will put meat on his bones and make him both well and presentable.

To look at Mr. Muldoon one would hardly take him for one of the most powerful men physically of this generation, but such he is. He is said to be the best and his estimate of the contestants in the coming mill should be of interest to interested parties.

Second Lecture on Napoleon.

Lieutenant Hamilton will give his next lecture, "Napoleon's Second campaign in Italy," next Wednesday evening, March 17th, in the Y. M. C. A. Hall. These lectures are for the benefit of the public library, there are no expenses to be paid and every dollar received will be invested in books for the library to be selected by a competent committee. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance of our people at this interesting lecture. The price of admission is very low (10 cents) and all should attend.

Cure For Headache.

As a remedy for all forms of headache, Electric Bitters has proved to be the very best. It effects a permanent cure and the most dreaded habitual sick headaches yield to its influence. We urge all who are afflicted to procure a bottle, and give this remedy a fair trial. In cases of habitual constipation Electric Bitters cures by giving the needed tone to the bowels, and few cases long resist the use of this medicine. Try it once. Large bottles only fifty cents at S. J. Hodgkinson's Drug Store.

RENO PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Report and Honor Rolls for the Month of February, 1897.

To the Board of School Trustees—GENTLEMEN:—I respectfully submit herewith my report for the school month ending February 28, 1897.

On account of much stormy weather, the attendance in some of the grades was not good.

The Kindergarten morning talks for the past month have been interesting and instructive from a patriotic standpoint. The story of George Washington, his life as a boy and man was told in language so simple and a manner so interesting that the little ones gained from it a tolerably good idea of the man.

In the writing and drawing lessons, Miss Lewers is arousing much interest by inciting a rivalry for good results between the different grades. Each room is anxious to win a star, wreath or banner—rewards that are given for a general high standing in the room.

The present senior class numbers sixteen, and, on the whole, they are doing excellent work. Some of them are developing into fine students in whom the High School and the town may well feel honored.

The Discovery Saved His Life.

M. G. Caillouette, Druggist, Beaversville, Ill., says: To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with La Grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail, and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use, and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it. Get a free trial bottle at S. J. Hodgkinson's Drug Store.
